LIGHT CONTRACT, APPROPRIATIONS BEFORE COUNCIL

City Officials To Add Money To Pay Additional Salaries For All Employees

SPECIAL BALLOT SOUGHT

$1,320 Sought For Special Officers During Year

Appropriations for 1938 and an ordinance to place the street-lighting contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. before voters at a special election will be the major issues before city council Wednesday evening.

Council met last week as a committee to check the light referendum petitions and authorized Carl C. Leist, solicitor, to prepare the legislation necessary to call a special ballot. Passage of an ordinance determines the sufficiency of the petitions, Mr. Leist explained.

The proposed appropriations for 1938 will include $1,320 for employing an extra policeman, recommended by Mayor W. B. Cady, and restoration of salary cuts to more city employees, Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, announced Monday. City employees took "cuts" in 1933. To date the salaries of the policemen, firemen and janitor of Memorial hall have been restored. Restoration of salary cuts to nurses at Berger hospital is still under consideration.

Miss Young said the appropriations tentatively made will total $106,512 and compare almost exactly with those made for last year with the exception of the salary increases. Last year two appropriation ordinances were passed, one every six months. Additional appropriations were voted in addition to those made for the six-month periods.

Friends in Watts' party joined the fracas and Kirkland is said to have received his share of blows. Kirkland wrote the stage version of John Steinbeck's novel, "Tortilla Flat", and he objected to Watts' printed remarks that it was "a sly and disagreeable chronicle of an unappetizing lot of unpleasant people with funny dialects."

OHIO SHERIFF KILLS BANDIT

Galena Youth, Named in Robbery of Delaware Store, Dies of Hemorrhages; Deputy Shot

MT. VERNON, Jan. 17 — (UP) — Walter Lehman, 17, of Galena, was in jail here today on an open charge as the result of a gun battle in which his companion was killed and a deputy sheriff wounded.

Edison Watts, 19, of near Galena, was killed early Sunday in the battle on Route 3, near Mt. Liberty, 10 miles southwest of here. Deputy Sheriff Oliver Walker, 42, was in a hospital with flesh wounds.

Sheriff Clyde Biggs of Knox county, whose head was grazed by a bullet, said Lehman had confessed the $47 robbery of a Delaware grocery Saturday night, a few hours before the gun fight.

Abdomen Wound Fatal
Watts died of internal hemorrhages after being shot in the abdomen by Sheriff Biggs. The sheriff said Watts had aimed a small automatic pistol at him. Lehman, unarmed, jumped into a ditch.

Coroner C. L. Harmer said Watts "died of injuries inflicted by officers while resisting arrest."

Officers said Lehman admitted spending some of the money obtained in the Delaware robbery in Columbus. They were halted by a tire blowout near Mt. Liberty. Signaling a bus, they were taken to the village where Clarence McLarnan, a gasoline station operator, refused to get up to help them.

In retaliation, one of the youths kicked out a window and fired two shots into the McLarnan home, authorities were told. McLarnan telephoned Sheriff Biggs who with his deputy, found the two walking along the road to Mt. Vernon.

Sheriff Biggs said he got out of his car and said to them: "This is the law; put up your hands."

Watts started firing, the sheriff said. Walker was wounded but fired back until his gun was empty. Lehman did not engage in the fight but suffered a slight scalp wound.

Lehman on Probation
Sheriff Biggs said Lehman had been on probation since last May, when he was charged with breaking and entering at Delaware.

Mormon Held for Sanity Test After Trying to Burn Famed Tabernacle

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 17 — (UP) — An aged Mormon, who had seen a vision of Jesus Christ, and his three followers were held for sanity hearings today because they tried to force their way into the famous tabernacle of their faith with a flaming gasoline torch during Sunday services.

Police were told they wanted to burn the tabernacle. The leader was George Odie, 70, who called himself a new "prophet of the living God." He accused the Mormon leaders of being false to the fundamental teachings of the church. He said he received a revelation "in face to face talks with Jesus Christ."

Bishop David A. Smith said that Odie and his three followers were trouble makers.

The four men came here Sunday from Orem, Utah. Odie said they were going into the tabernacle to announce his gospel. He expected trouble with tabernacle guards and was ready for it. He and each of his three followers carried fruit tree sprayers which they had filled with gasoline.

Accompanying Odie were Paul Millet, 57; his son, Archie, 21, and William H. Wall, 67. M. J. Mertlich, an usher, stopped them at the door. Odie raised his sprayer,

U. S. ASKED TO REMOVE 7,000,000 USED CARS FROM NATIONAL MART

DETROIT, Jan. 17 — (UP) — The automobile industry today awaited reaction from Washington to a proposal that the government buy and scrap 7,000,000 used cars to open the way for new sales.

The plan was suggested by Ward's automotive reports in a letter to President Roosevelt, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Sen. James F. Byrnes, chairman of the unemployment investigating committee, and Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan.

Ward's suggested that the used cars, which they estimated could be purchased for an average of $30 each, be used as scrap metal in the 1938 armaments program.

Attorneys Charge Wrong Evidence Admitted; Death Delay Seen

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17 — (UP) — Counsel for Anna Marie Hahn went before the Court of Appeals here today in an effort to save the blonde matron from death in the electric chair on March 10 for the poison murder of Jacob Wagner.

Hiram Bolsinger, Sr., charged in his plea before Judges Francis M. Hamilton, Stanley Matthews and Simon Ross that Mrs. Hahn had been insufficiently informed by the state of the charges against her and that collateral evidence of other deaths than Wagner's should not have been allowed.

The arguments were virtually the same as Bolsinger had given repeatedly in objections and motions during the trial last Fall.

The Court of Appeals was asked to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial. It was considered likely that the case would be carried to the Ohio supreme court and that Mrs. Hahn would be given a stay of execution while (Continued on Page Eight)

HOUSE HEARS BILL

Many Steamers Already Being Constructed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 — (UP) — The house appropriations committee today reported a $553,266,494 navy department supply bill for the 1939 fiscal year, including funds for construction of two new super-dreadnaughts and 20 other warships for national defense on the seas.

The appropriation was $26,723,156 over navy funds for the current fiscal year, but $11,139,967 under requests of the budget bureau.

The supply bill is expected to be followed this week by a supplementary message from President Roosevelt, requesting authorizations beyond the $553,266,494 figure to carry out a program to make American fleets second to none afloat.

Message Comes Later

Speaker William B. Bankhead said after a conference with President Roosevelt that the special message on naval expansion "will go up after we have disposed of the regular navy appropriations bill." This would make it near the end of the week.

The house will begin considering the measure tomorrow if the treasury-postoffice supply bill is disposed of today.

The bill carries $138,063,150 for construction of naval vessels—$9,637,000 less than was requested. However, with continuing funds, $182,908,421 would be available for ship-building in fiscal 1939.

As draft by the appropriations navy subcommittee, the bill would make available $18,422,100 to begin construction of two battleships with a completed cost of $70,850,300 each, two cruisers to cost $22,288,300, eight destroyers, six submarines, a minesweeper, a submarine tender, a fleet tug and an oiler.

To Continue Others

The bill also provides $119,641,050 to carry forward construction of the battleships North Carolina and Washington, which already have been laid down, three aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, 43 destroyers, 16 submarines, a sea-plane tender and a destroyer tender.

The report, submitted by Chairman William B. Umstead, D. N. C., made no mention of the tense (Continued on Page Eight)

$1,320 Sought For Special Officers During Year

Appropriations for 1938 and an ordinance to place the street-lighting contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. before voters at a special election will be the major issues before city council Wednesday evening.

HUMPHREY FIRES MAIDEN, OPPOSED BY SENATORS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—(UP)—Al Humphrey, state liquor enforcement chief, announced today that Joseph Maiden, Canton enforcement supervisor, "is off the payroll."

The senate graft investigating committee had insisted on Maiden's dismissal after submitting evidence that he had forged and padded expense accounts. Humphrey declined to say whether removing Maiden from the payroll constituted final dismissal.

U. S. ASKED TO REMOVE 7,000,000 USED CARS FROM NATIONAL MARCH

DETROIT, Jan. 17—(UP)—The automobile industry today awaited reaction from Washington to a proposal that the government buy and scrap 7,000,000 used cars to open the way for new sales.

The plan was suggested by Ward's automotive reports in a letter to President Roosevelt, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Sen. James F. Byrnes, chairman of the unemployment investigating committee, and Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan.

Ward's suggested that the used cars, which they estimated could be purchased for an average of $30 each, be used as scrap metal in the 1938 armaments program.

RE-TRIAL ASKED IN POISON CASE

Attorneys Charge Wrong Evidence Admitted; Death Delay Seen

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17—(UP)—Counsel for Anna Marie Hahn went before the Court of Appeals here today in an effort to save the blonde matron from death in the electric chair on March 10 for the poison murder of Jacob Wagner.

Hiram Bolsinger, Sr., charged in his plea before Judges Francis M. Hamilton, Stanley Matthews and Simon Ross that Mrs. Hahn had been insufficiently informed by the state of the charges against her and that collateral evidence of other deaths than Wagner's should not have been allowed.

The arguments were virtually the same as Bolsinger had given repeatedly in objections and motions during the trial last fall.

The Court of Appeals was asked to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial. It was considered likely that the case would be carried to the Ohio supreme court and that Mrs. Hahn would be given a stay of execution while

FLORIDA CRICKET DEFIES PLEA FOR KEY OF G CHIRP

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17—(UP)—A cantankerous cricket sat on a handkerchief today and sneered at every effort to make him maintain a one-beat chirp in four-four time in the key of G.

The handkerchief belonged to Elmer Raguse, chief sound engineer of Hal Roach, Inc. With anguish in his soul and sweat on his brow, he crouched with the cricket in a darkened room and pleaded with him.

Never was a sound engineer subjected to such indignity as this. For that matter, never was a cricket. This particular one was shipped here by the University of Florida, because of its fine tenor voice, the university said.

Elmer even tickled its tail with a camel's hair brush in the best Chinese manner, but not a squeak did he get. This was serious, not only to Roach and Raguse, but to the state of Florida, which will be pained to learn that its crickets are no more musical than California's.

22 Warships To Be Built In Effort To Make U. S. Forces Strongest

HOUSE HEARS BILL

Many Steamers Already Being Constructed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—The house appropriations committee today reported a $553,266,494 navy department supply bill for the 1939 fiscal year, including funds for construction of two new super-dreadnaughts and 20 other warships for national defense on the seas.

The appropriation was $26,723,186 over navy funds for the current fiscal year, but $11,139,967 under requests of the budget bureau.

The supply bill is expected to be followed this week by a supplementary message from President Roosevelt, requesting authorizations beyond the $553,266,494 figure to carry out a program to make American fleets second to none afloat.

Message Comes Later

Speaker William B. Bankhead said after a conference with President Roosevelt that the special message on naval expansion "will go up after we have disposed of the regular navy appropriations bill." This would make it near the end of the week.

The house will begin considering the measure tomorrow if the treasury-postoffice supply bill is disposed of today.

The bill carries $138,063,150 for construction of naval vessels—$9,637,000 less than was requested. However, with continuing funds, $182,908,421 would be available for ship-building in fiscal 1939.

As drafted by the appropriations navy subcommittee, the bill would make available $18,422,100 to begin construction of two battleships with a completed cost of $70,850,300 each, two cruisers to cost $22,288,300, eight destroyers, six submarines, a minesweeper, a submarine tender, a fleet tug and an oiler.

To Continue Others

The bill also provides $119,641,050 to carry forward construction of the battleships North Carolina and Washington, which already have been laid down, three aircraft carriers, eight cruisers, 43 destroyers, 16 submarines, a sea-plane tender and a destroyer tender.

The report, submitted by Chairman William B. Umstead, D. N. C., made no mention of the tense

SENATE READY TO PLACE REED ON HIGH COURT

Unopposed Confirmation To Be Voted For President's Newest Appointee

BOTH PARTIES PLEASED

Kentuckian Expected To Be On Liberal Side

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—Unopposed senate confirmation of Stanley F. Reed as associate justice of the supreme court to replace retiring Justice George Sutherland, was predicted today. Leaders planned to get his confirmation through the senate quickly.

At noon, Sutherland will sit for the last time as an active justice when the court meets to hand down decisions in several relatively unimportant cases. Tomorrow, the 75-year-old jurist will join former Justice Willis Van Devanter on the voluntary retired list.

Unopposed confirmation of the tall, suave Kentuckian who came into national prominence in nine years, was predicted by senators of both parties. His nomination for Sutherland's post, sent to the senate Saturday, was regarded as having smoothed somewhat last year's bitter fight over President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the court. Senators who led the fight against the President's court plan, who were among the first to criticize the appointment of Justice Hugo L. Black, praised Reed's selection.

Black More Liberal
A Democrat who was first brought to official life by former President Hoover as counsel for the Federal Farm Board, Reed is regarded as a "middle of the road" New Deal supporter. But his judicial philosophy is expected to be less liberal than that of President Roosevelt's other court appointments—Justice Black.

Most observers believed, however, that Reed would join the court's liberal bloc in approving such New Deal legislation as the Tennessee Valley Authority and the 1935 Public Utility Holdings Company act which will be brought before the court for rulings this spring.

If Reed votes for approval of similar New Deal statutes it will result in a pro-administration majority of Justices Reed, Black, Harlan F. Stone, Louis D. Brandeis and Benjamin N. Cardozo.

The one time conservative majority now has been reduced to two—Justices James C. McReynolds and Pierce Butler. But until the recovery of Cardozo from his present illness, the balance of power still will remain in the hands of the two "unpredictable" members, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Justice Owen J. Roberts, who have voted with both sides.

May Disqualify Themselves

There was much speculation as to whether Black and Reed would disqualify themselves in the Electric Bond and Share Company's challenge of constitutional validity of the Holding Company act, scheduled for argument Feb. 7. The usual custom is for justices to disqualify themselves when they have had previous interest in either side of the case.

Black was a member of the senate when the holding company law was enacted, and voted for it. Reed, as solicitor general, signed the government's briefs asking that the court grant a review and that it be given at the earliest possible date.

Should Black and Reed disqualify themselves, it would mean the case would be decided by a six-justice court, the bare requirement for a quorum. No possible hope for Cardozo's return before Feb. 7 is seen.

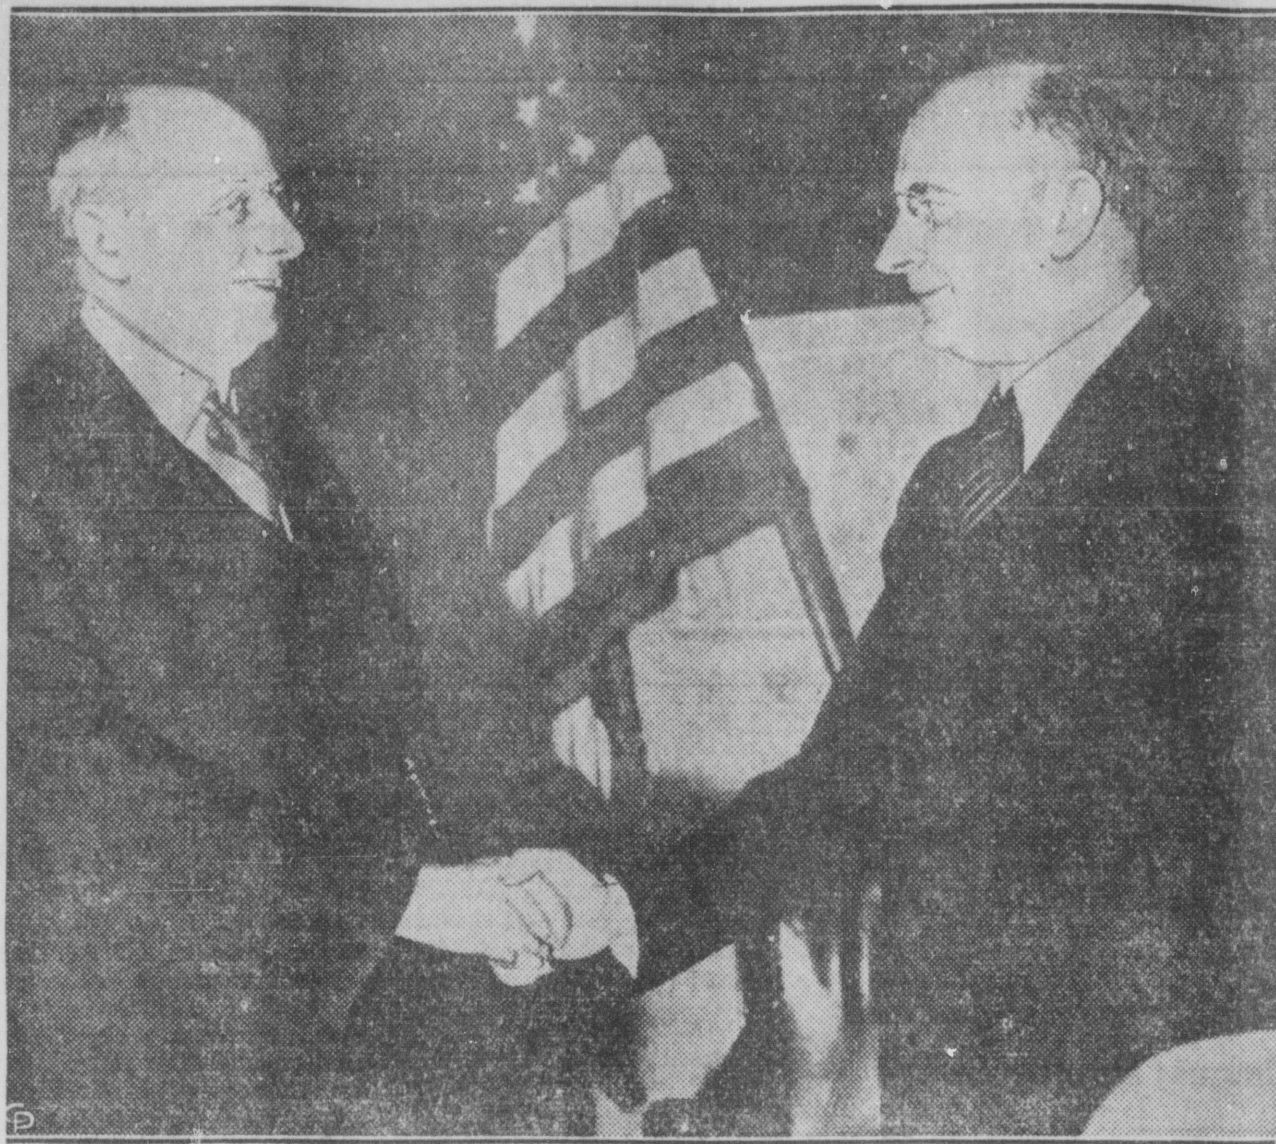

While Cardozo's condition was unchanged, rumors circulated even if he recovers he would resign because of physical inability to do his share of the work. Simultaneously it also was rumored that Brandeis and McReynolds considered taking advantage of the 1937 retirement act which would allow them to retire on the full $20,000 a year salary of an active justice.

Farmers' Week Provides Entertainment, Exercise

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—Farmers' Week visitors at Ohio State University January 24 to 28 are going to be given a chance to keep healthy and happy because the general afternoon and evening program provides four dances for exercise, motion picture shows for rest, music for entertainment, good speakers for instruction, and drama for good measure.

Will Rogers in "State Fair" sets the pace for the week Monday in University Hall at 4 o'clock. The entertainment that evening will be furnished by a group of Swiss serenaders under the direction of Mr. C. M. Baker, Wayne county.

The Ohio State Farm Bureau has charge of the Tuesday general program and has provided one speaker, Dr. F. A. Pearson, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York; a lecture on cooperation presented by means of motion pictures, two hours of square dances, and a medley of folk games. Dr. Pearson will speak on the price level at 4 o'clock in University Hall and the motion picture will be shown there but the balance of the day's events will be in the Armory.

Governor Martin L. Davey has been invited to address the Wednesday audience at 4 o'clock in University Hall. An extra period has been added to the general program that day by presenting Cornelia Stratton Parker at 11 a. m. in University Hall. This noted lecturer and homemaker has the topic, "The home in the changing world."

"Masters" Honored

The 1937 Ohio Master Farmers will be presented Wednesday by L. L. Rummell, field editor, Ohio Farmer, at 3 p. m. in University Hall and the Master Farmers will have a noon luncheon. Dr. Lawrence E. Hicks, director of wild life institute, Ohio State University, will give an illustrated talk at 2 o'clock in Townshend Hall about wild life on Ohio farms.

Full measure is given Wednesday evening with two hours of quadrilles to be followed by a demonstration of how to make music out of odds and ends. This demonstration is given by Prof. C. C. Weidemann, Ohio State, who has built musical instruments out of such diverse materials as rhinoceros ribs and scrap lumber. The dancing will be in the Armory, but Professor Weidemann takes the crowd back to University Hall.

The Ohio State Grange has its innings on Thursday. They bring two noted speakers to the campus, Mr. E. G. Nourse, Brookings Institute, Washington, D. C. who talks on "How fast can America achieve abundance", and Duncan Marshall, Toronto, Canada, former minister of agriculture, who gives as his topic, "The Lane." Mr. Nourse is on the program at 3 o'clock and the former minister at 4 o'clock, both in University Hall. C. C. Terrell, New Vienna, and a cast of players will present an

ALIMONY BUDGET $20,700 ANNUALLY FOR FOUR WIVES

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The biggest alimony budget in the history of Allegheny county is that of Henry S. A. Stewart, Jr., who has had four wives.

The budget now stands at $20,700 a year, which is more than half of his income, as stated by attorneys, of some $38,000 annually.

The latest entry in Stewart's alimony budget is $325 a month to Bertie J. Stewart, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., who rid herself of matrimonial bindings last winter at Miami Beach. With the new bite on his income, ordered by common pleas court here, the budget reads:

Wife No. 1 — cash settlement, amount unrevealed.

Wife No. 2—$1,000 a month.

Wife No. 3—$400 a month.

Wife No. 4—$325 a month.

The figures show that Stewart has been successful in having the amounts scaled down with each divorce, which probably is a good thing because three of them at $1,000 a month would total $36,000 a year and leave him only $2,000 out of the $38,000 income.

Farmers' Week Provides Entertainment, Exercise

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17.—Farmers' Week visitors at Ohio State University January 24 to 28 are going to be given a chance to keep healthy and happy because the general afternoon and evening program provides four dances for exercise, motion picture shows for rest, music for entertainment, good speakers for instruction, and drama for good measure.

Will Rogers in "State Fair" sets the pace for the week Monday in University Hall at 4 o'clock. The entertainment that evening will be furnished by a group of Swiss serenaders under the direction of Mr. C. M. Baker, Wayne county.

The Ohio State Farm Bureau has charge of the Tuesday general program and has provided one speaker, Dr. F. A. Pearson, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York; a lecture on cooperation presented by means of motion pictures, two hours of square dances, and a medley of folk games. Dr. Pearson will speak on the price level at 4 o'clock in University Hall and the motion picture will be shown there but the balance of the day's events will be in the Armory.

Governor Martin L. Davey has been invited to address the Wednesday audience at 4 o'clock in University Hall. An extra period has been added to the general program that day by presenting Cornelia Stratton Parker at 11 a. m. in University Hall. This noted lecturer and homemaker has the topic, "The home in the changing world."

"Masters" Honored

The 1937 Ohio Master Farmers will be presented Wednesday by L. L. Rummell, field editor, Ohio Farmer, at 3 p. m. in University Hall and the Master Farmers will have a noon luncheon. Dr. Lawrence E. Hicks, director of wild life institute, Ohio State University, will give an illustrated talk at 2 o'clock in Townshend Hall about wild life on Ohio farms.

Full measure is given Wednesday evening with two hours of quadrilles to be followed by a demonstration of how to make music out of odds and ends. This demonstration is given by Prof. C. C. Weidemann, Ohio State, who has built musical instruments out of such diverse materials as rhinoceros ribs and scrap lumber. The dancing will be in the Armory, but Professor Weidemann takes the crowd back to University Hall.

The Ohio State Grange has its innings on Thursday. They bring two noted speakers to the campus, Mr. E. G. Nourse, Brookings Institute, Washington, D. C. who talks on "How fast can America achieve abundance", and Duncan Marshall, Toronto, Canada, former minister of agriculture, who gives as his topic, "The Lane." Mr. Nourse is on the program at 3 o'clock and the former minister at 4 o'clock, both in University Hall. C. C. Terrell, New Vienna, and a cast of players will present an

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The biggest alimony budget in the history of Allegheny county is that of Henry S. A. Stewart, Jr., who has had four wives.

The budget now stands at $20,700 a year, which is more than half of his income, as stated by attorneys, of some $38,000 annually.

The latest entry in Stewart's alimony budget is $325 a month to Bertie J. Stewart, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., who rid herself of matrimonial bindings last winter at Miami Beach.

With the new bite on his income, ordered by common pleas court here, the budget reads:
Wife No. 1 — cash settlement, amount unrevealed.

Wife No. 2 — $1,000 a month.
Wife No. 3 — $400 a month.
Wife No. 4 — $325 a month.

The figures show that Stewart has been successful in having the amounts scaled down with each divorce, which probably is a good thing because three of them at $1,000 a month would total $36,000 a year and leave him only $2,000 out of the $38,000 income.

Your Money's Worth

The value of money depends on what you use it for. A silver dollar makes an excellent paper weight and is fine for throwing across rivers. A $5 bill will light any cigar or start a fire in the furnace. Or you might even use currency to paper the wall. The value of a loan, likewise, depends on how it is used. Loans that are made for such worthy purposes as balancing the budget, meeting emergencies, re-establishing lost credit, driving a bargain, taking advantage of opportunities are the kind of loans made every day at The City Loan. They afford you your money's worth.

WOOD CHOPPER SWINGS CLUB TO KILL BEAR

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UP)—Known only as "John," and a recent arrival from his native land, a giant Swedish woodcutter evidently valued his lunch more than his life.

Cutting wood in the Blue Mountains 50 miles from here, John was vigorously attacking a huge log when he glanced around and saw a brown bear making short work of his lunch.

John pivoted and crashed his axe across the bear's thick skull. The axe handle snapped. The bear retreated, changed its mind and started for the big woodsman.

The woodcutter grabbed a stick of wood and each time the bear lunged, he brought the club across the animal's head. He finally delivered a fatal blow.

Clair Eggleston, ranger rider, witnessed the fight but was unable to assist because of a balky horse.

Eggleston asked the Swede why he didn't give around when the bear charged and got the reply: "First I start to run. Then I say, 'John, you work five hours today. You earn lunch.' So I stay and fight!"

John has the skin of the bear as proof of the battle.

JOLIET GUARDS HALT DAYLIGHT PRISON BREAK

Four Long Term Convicts Captured After Two Are Wounded

ALL PUT IN SOLITARY

22-foot Wall Is Scaled By Prisoners

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 17—(UP)—Alert and sharp-shooting guards were credited today with foiling a daylight break for freedom of five long-term convicts from the state penitentiary Sunday.

Four of the men succeeded in scaling the 22-foot prison wall. Two were stopped by bullets but were wounded only slightly. The others were captured as they attempted to flee toward the shelter of nearby buildings. The fifth man retreated to the prison proper when a guard began firing.

Warden Joseph Ragen said the men were Harry Gerken, 28, serving a 30-year term for murder, from Peoria; William Yoho, 27, serving four consecutive one year to life terms for robbery, from Vermilion county; Peter Ristich, 26, life sentence as a habitual criminal, from Chicago; Donald Loftus, 36, life term for bank robbery, from McHenry county; and Edward Rabalais, 34, one year to life for burglary, from Chicago.

Guard Overpowered

Ragen said the men, working in the prison laundry, overpowered Guard Edward Monahan and tied him with sheets. They took his wallet containing $31 but did not touch the gun. Then they bound together four short ladders, used in the laundry, and "raced 100 yards to the outer wall."

Gerken, Yoho, Loftus and Ristich got to the top of the wall. Ristich sprained his ankle in jumping to the street and surrendered without a struggle. Yoho ran into Capt. Clarence Hawthorne of the prison force who was off duty. He also surrendered.

Thomas Shaw, a tower guard, using a high-powered rifle, shot Loftus through the shoulder as he raced down the street. Then Shaw turned his fire on Gerken, who was wounded in the left leg as he made ready to jump from the wall. Rabalais heard the shooting and ran back to the laundry.

"It was all over in 10 minutes," Ragen said. "Loftus and Gerken were taken to the prison hospital and the others placed in solitary confinement."

Loftus, he said, was involved in an attempted break two years ago.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A new type of newspaper reporter comes to the screen in the person of Fredric March, after years in the which the journalistic lads have been pictured as open-shirted, sartorially deficient characters surrounded by paste pots and jumbled heaps of paper.

Co-starring with Carole Lombard in the David O. Selznick technicolor production, "Nothing Sacred," now playing at the Cliftona Theatre under the direction of William A. Wellman, March, as the star reporter of "The Morning Star," chases his story in a high silk hat and dress suit. At all other times save when he is seen in a hot, dusty small town his wardrobe is beyond reproach.

This explains Director Wellman, is simply in tune with the day. With college men well versed in the social graces, filling the staffs of today's newspapers, films are changing their conception of reporters.

'See . . . it's signed by young Washington'

As early as 1746, the neighbors of young George Washington entrusted the surveying of their fields and forests to the master of Mount Vernon. They could count upon his unswerving honesty. His name upon a map made it an authoritative document.

A good name is no less important today. As you read the advertisements in this newspaper, you see the names of manufacturers and merchants who have builded their business success upon honest products.

The very fact that they advertise speaks for their integrity. The store that stays in business has not only to get customers but to keep them year after year. Your good-will is worth too much to be endangered by inferior, unsatisfactory goods.

Read the advertisements regularly. They will save you minutes and money. They serve as maps of good merchandise—signed with names which, like the name of Washington, have been tested by many and found completely trustworthy.

WOOD CHOPPER SWINGS CLUB TO KILL BEAR

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UP)—Known only as "John," and a recent arrival from his native land, a giant Swedish woodcutter evidently valued his lunch more than his life.

Cutting wood in the Blue Mountains 50 miles from here, John was vigorously attacking a huge log when he glanced around and saw a brown bear making short work of his lunch.

John pivoted and crashed his axe across the bear's thick skull. The axe handle snapped. The bear retreated, changed its mind and started for the big woodsman.

The woodcutter grabbed a stick of wood and each time the bear lunged, he brought the club across the animal's head. He finally delivered a fatal blow.

Clair Egeinton, ranger rider, witnessed the fight but was unable to assist because of a balky horse.

Egeinton asked the Swede why he didn't give around when the bear charged and got the reply: "First I start to run. Then I say, 'John, you work five hours today. You earn lunch.' So I stay and fight!"

John has the skin of the bear as proof of the battle.

JOLIET GUARDS HALT DAYLIGHT PRISON BREAK

Four Long Term Convicts Captured After Two Are Wounded

ALL PUT IN SOLITARY

22-foot Wall Is Scaled By Prisoners

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 17.—(UP)—Alert and sharp-shooting guards were credited today with foiling a daylight break for freedom of five long-term convicts from the state penitentiary Sunday.

Four of the men succeeded in scaling the 22-foot prison wall. Two were stopped by bullets but were wounded only slightly. The others were captured as they attempted to flee toward the shelter of nearby buildings. The fifth man retreated to the prison proper when a guard began firing.

Warden Joseph Ragen said the men were Harry Gerken, 28, serving a 30-year term for murder, from Peoria; William Yoho, 27, serving four consecutive one year to life terms for robbery, from Vermilion county; Peter Ristich, 26, life sentence as a habitual criminal, from Chicago; Donald Loftus, 36, life term for bank robbery, from McHenry county; and Edward Rabalais, 34, one year to life for burglary, from Chicago.

Guard Overpowered
Ragen said the men, working in the prison laundry, overpowered Guard Edward Monahan and tied him with sheets. They took his wallet containing $31 but did not touch the gun. Then they bound together four short ladders, used in the laundry, and raced 100 yards to the outer wall.

Gerken, Yoho, Loftus and Ristich got to the top of the wall. Ristich sprained his ankle in jumping to the street and surrendered without a struggle. Yoho ran into Capt. Clarence Hawthorne of the prison force who was off duty. He also surrendered.

Thomas Shaw, a tower guard, using a high-powered rifle, shot Loftus through the shoulder as he raced down the street. Then Shaw turned his fire on Gerken, who was wounded in the left leg as he made ready to jump from the wall. Rabalais heard the shooting and ran back to the laundry.

"It was all over in 10 minutes," Ragen said. "Loftus and Gerken were taken to the prison hospital and the others placed in solitary confinement."

Loftus, he said, was involved in an attempted break two years ago.

MRS. MADISON TAKES POST AS W.P.A. OFFICIAL

Women's Job Supervisor To Be In Charge Of Four Counties

TO CONTINUE HERE

Ross, Fayette and Fairfield Work Assigned

Mrs. Beulah Madison, N. Scioto street, who has been supervisor of women's W.P.A. projects in Circleville, has been appointed area supervisor in charge of women's and professional projects in Pickaway, Ross, Fayette and Fairfield counties.

She succeeds Mrs. Mary Hughes, of Chillicothe, resigned. At the present time Mrs. Madison will be supervisor of twenty-two projects in the four counties. More projects are to be started later, Mrs. Madison said.

Mrs. Madison started on her new duties Monday.

She will continue as supervisor of the Circleville project in addition to her new duties.

PROJECT GIVEN MORE FUNDS BY R. E. OFFICIALS

Another requisition for the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., was announced Monday by R. E. officials. The amount, $3,089.36, is to be used for construction materials, poles, wires, and the like.

The allotment makes more than $102,000 already advanced for the new lines, all of the work so far being centered in Fairfield county.

The R.E.A. legal division has also forwarded Eugene L. Hensel, the project attorney, an amending loan contract bringing both allotments into one contract. When this contract has been executed by the borrower and signed by the administrator there will be an agreement between the government to lend and the cooperative to borrow not to exceed $205,000 to build the project.

It is essential that the project officials execute the contract properly and return it to R.E.A. as quickly as possible. Any delays at this time such as failure to call a meeting to authorize execution will hamper the project throughout the rest of the construction period.

PLASTIC CARS

MAYBE we shall yet have automobile fenders that won't crumple every time you scrape the side of the garage door or touch another car. They will be made not of steel, but of straw, chaff, cornstalks and other farm waste.

This is the pleasant prospect held out by Henry Ford, though he isn't quite so explicit about the fenders. He has had industrial chemists working for years on "plastics," the wonderful new, light, tough, non-corroding substances made from soy beans and many other things. The other day he showed newspapermen a thin, convex sheet of such a product derived from soy beans and wheat chaff. He put it on the floor and jumped on it, and it didn't crack or break. Steel wouldn't have stood that, he said.

The Fords and Du Ponts particularly have been making remarkable progress in such chemical research—"chemurgy" Ford calls it, a word imitated from "metallurgy." Ford believes we shall soon have cars composed mostly of farm products and wastes instead of steel, in all but the motors, wheels, springs and other parts subject to great stress or wear. They would be much lighter than present cars. Also more durable, because they will not rust. They will save valuable metals and greatly prolong the world's iron supply.

More important still, perhaps, they may bring new prosperity to agriculture, by growing these new "metals" on the farms and giving value to vast quantities of farm stuff now wasted.

BOATS AND BOATING

THE United States has two oceans, five Great Lakes and a generous assortment of lesser lakes and rivers for the enjoyment of water sports. And yet it is a little surprising to know how much use is made of them.

A reporter at the recent National Motor Boat Show in New York City was impressed with the statistics he gathered there. For example, the American Power Boat Association reports 200,000 registered power-driven boats alone. There are also a vast number and variety of unregistered outboard and motorless boats—row boats, canoes, small sail boats. There are more yachts than landlubbers realize, both the very costly ones and many more moderately priced.

It is estimated that half a million Americans will cruise around the country's waters during 1938 in various types of craft. We doubt whether this takes into consideration the small boys on home-made rafts. They probably have as much fun, too, as the millionaire in his palatial yacht.

And now the Nazi leaders are soothing their consciences, if any, by calling us militaristic. Oh, well!

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

When the World War broke out in 1914 I am convinced that not one American in 1,000 believed that the United States would be involved in it.

Sentiment was that it was a crazy struggle, which we had nothing to do with and had no more inclination to break into than any sane person would have to jimmy an entrance into a lunatic asylum, as a volunteer patient.

President Woodrow Wilson's neutrality proclamation had almost unanimous popular endorsement. A very few folk said we were making a mistake to be so pacifistic at the outset — that we would stand a better chance of keeping out of the embroglio by asserting ourselves sternly immediately. But they were mere voices crying in the wilderness. And then, after all we got into the thing.

This time, with about as nasty a situation simmering, our overwhelming inclination seems to be to try to remain neutral by assuming a threatening attitude. Our few pacifists are accused of being dangerous, by being so pacifistic.

BELIEVES IN NEUTRALITY

Although undoubtedly in a microscopic minority, I still am not entirely cured of the idea that the best way to be pacifistic is to be outspokenly pacifistic.

I always liked Senator Gerald P. Nye's neutrality law. I am acquainted with the argument that belligerents will be emboldened to stamp on us if assured that we will stay neutral anyway, but I do not subscribe to its conclusion. I do not believe that foreign belligerents will interpret it as literally as that.

And I have considerable sympathy with Representative Louis Ludlow's proposed constitutional amendment, calling for a popular vote to authorize an American declaration of war.

I am sure the Ludlow amendment will be unadopted, but not that it is 100 percent deficient in merit.

A REFERENDUM DESIRED

As matters stand the president cannot declare war.

Congress has to vote the declaration.

The president, to be sure, can create a state of affairs which amounts to war, leaving congress no option but to declare it. There is no check, however, on congress.

ANTIS' ARGUMENTS

Anti-Ludlowites reason that a plebiscite would take too long — that a prospective enemy already would have done his "dirty work" while the ballot was in progress.

They assert likewise that "pro" and "anti" war Americans would clash at the polls, dividing the country.

Finally, they contend that congress is representative—and that it would be un-representative for a popular vote to over-ride it on such an issue.

WOULD DELAY COUNT?

Well, militarily speaking, there might be a little delay—some say 60 days for the plebiscite; some say 48 hours. From the professional fighter's standpoint time is important; on that ground he is entitled to consideration.

As to war, however, the "antis" are entitled to be heard as well as the "pro" faction, even if relations are strained between them.

And is congress representative? Yes, in general, perhaps.

But on emergency, urgent propositions—like war? Legislators like Senator Nye and Representative Ludlow should be heard, it seems to me.

250,000 WPA JOBS AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON—WPA is faced with an extraordinary mystery. Although unemployment has increased tremendously, applicants for work-relief have not been given more than 250,000 jobs which are open to them.

Suspected reason: local politics.

The increase in relief jobs came on Dec. 9, when Harry Hopkins, faced with huge demands, let down the bars and ordered 350,000 extra jobless added to WPA rolls. Subsequently, this order was enlarged to permit an unlimited expansion of WPA rolls in nine cities—Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Omaha and Kansas City.

But despite this order and the unremitting increase in unemployment, only 100,000 so far have been added to work-relief lists. This is less than one-third the number authorized by Hopkins.

For some unexplained reason local WPA officials, notwithstanding the clamor for aid and wide latitude granted them, are taking their own sweet time about giving men jobs.

Labor's Nonpartisan League, flooded with complaints charging local officials with playing politics, believes there is wholesale sabotage of the government's relief program, and threatens a congressional investigation.

WPA authorities already had started this inquiry, but after this laborite protest they rushed out new instructions to local officials to speed up the expansion of their rolls immediately or explain their failure to do so.

TRUST BUSTER

If you want an idea on the trend the President's investigation of monopolies is likely to take, cast an appraising eye over William A. Ayres, the Federal Trade Commissioner who is conducting it. His background is illuminating.

Ayres first came into political prominence during the Populist Movement as the campaign manager of "Sockless Jerry" Simpson, Congressman from Kansas. Later Ayres himself went to Congress, and William Jennings Bryan, then considered a radical, campaigned for him.

Ayres was defeated by his German and Scandinavian constituents for one term because he voted for entrance into the World War, but later the elder La Follette, who voted against the war, wrote him a letter to the effect that regardless of his war vote, he was too important a progressive to lose. This sent him back to Congress with a rush, and he remained there until Roosevelt, who had known him when Ayres was a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, appointed him to the Federal Trade Commission.

Ayres is nearly 70, but has just finished a vigorous year as chairman of the FTC, has been one of its most tireless trust-busters. You won't lose money if you bet that his monopoly investigation will be a thorough one.

"Wandering Phlebitis" Discussed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I AM ASKED to discuss the subject of phlebitis, particularly the wandering form.

Dr. Clendingen

Phlebitis means literally the inflammation of a vein. In the common form it is the inflammation of one of the large veins of the leg, usually on one side. Appendicitis is a common cause. Typhoid fever is another cause. In fact, any infection inside the abdomen may rest on the large vein which carries all the blood from the leg and produce a clot inside of it. This, of course, embarrasses the return circulation and the leg swells up and is painful. It is often called "white leg" or "milk leg".

Under rest and elevation of the leg it always heals up with the formation of a clot inside. Collateral circulation takes care of the return of blood from the leg.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Collateral circulation means practically a detour of blood. A person who has once had phlebitis of this kind, however, is always subject to swelling in the leg whenever an extra amount of walking or running is indulged in.

Occurs in Men

Another form of phlebitis occurs in middle-aged men, especially, and there is a form of hardening of the veins which is very much like hardening of the arteries. This also is likely to be more troublesome in the legs than anywhere else, causing pain, painful spots and swelling.

Wandering phlebitis is likely to superimpose itself on this form. A typical case of this kind was a man, aged 50, who developed pain in the calf of the right leg. This was slow to mend and a lump was found there which was identified with the vein, and this was cut out surgically. Later he had a similar occurrence in the vein of the forearm and later some abdominal symptoms which were probably due to an involvement of a vein in the stomach. All of these eventually got well, and this is the experience with nearly everyone who had the condition, but it is very stubborn and may run a course of three or four years.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
P. S. V.: "Please inform me what treatment can be taken for running ears."

Answer: Running ears, especially in children, should be treated immediately. Sometimes they can be cured by removal of infected adenoids. Under any circumstance they are sufficiently serious that life insurance companies do not accept applicants with this condition.

Mrs. F. E. P.: "If there is any cure for tetter, a skin disease of the hands, please let me know what it is."

Answer: Tetter is not recognized as a special disease. It may be eczema, or ringworm, or many different forms of dermatitis due to irritation. All doctors are familiar with the condition and can advise as to proper treatment.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendingen can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Alex Norris, a writer who objects to detective stories, is theorizing on the subject of crime action. During a week-end party at the home of Dr. Thurston, near London, other guests are Townsend, the author; Williams, the family lawyer, and Strickland, a sportsman. Mrs. Thurston is the only woman present. Townsend observes that Mrs. Thurston appears strangely flushed after a conversation with Fellows, the chauffeur.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 3

I HAVE SAID that nothing sinister happened during the earlier part of that evening at the Thurstons', and it is true. But there was only one small incident which I thought, even at the time, was odd. It was not in the least sinister, and might even, at another time, have been thought rather comic.

I dress very quickly. I have never been able to afford a manservant capable of looking after my clothes, and consequently am accustomed to doing everything myself. I must have been the first to finish changing, and left my room to go downstairs within 15 minutes of the time when the first gong had been rung.

The house, I have explained, was Georgian, and so simple in plan that one could take it all in at a glance. There were three stories, and on each floor the corridor ran from end to end of the house, with doors to right and left of it. My own was at the east end of the corridor, and Mary Thurston's at the west end, while young Strickland, I knew, had the bedroom next to hers. Her husband's room was opposite to hers.

I had reached the top of the stairs, and was about to descend, when I noticed that the door of Mary Thurston's room was being opened. Thinking that she, too, had by some means effected a quick change, I waited for her. But it was Strickland who began cautiously to emerge. When he saw me standing there he made a clumsy effort to return to the room, but, realizing that I had seen him, he seemed to think better of it, and walked out as boldly as possible. He even gave me a brief nod as he entered his own room.

I went on downstairs wishing that I had not paused, since it might have appeared that I was spying. It was embarrassing, too, to have seen that. And I found myself wondering what might be the relationship between these two, the aging, stout, motherly woman, and the thick-set, hard-drinking young gambler. Whatever it might be, it was not a love affair, of that I was certain.

Downstairs I found the Vicar, who, I gathered, had been invited to dinner. I was a little dismayed to find him sitting beside the fire in the lounge, for I realized that I should be alone for some little time with him. He sat bolt upright on a straight-backed chair, his hands on his bony knees, and his eyes—after he had greeted me—blinked solemnly at the fire.

I had met Mr. Rider before, of course, and never without embarrassment. This little, wiry, staring man was quite out of place in the Thurstons' cheerful house—in more senses than one a skeleton at the feast. His very appearance made him inappropriate. He was bald, and his cheeks were yellow, and his collar too large for his thin neck. His clothes were always untidy, and sometimes rather soiled, for he was a bachelor and depended on a village woman for service in his draughty vicarage. But it was his stare which used to make me uncomfortable. He had a trick of fixing his eyes on one, then apparently forgetting himself, so that for perhaps five or even ten minutes, one remained under scrutiny. He had dark, round, surprised eyes, in deep sockets. His reputation was unusual, too. His puritanism was ferocious. Towards those of his parishioners whose way of living was supposed to be lax, his attitude was merciless. A number of stories were current in the district of his uncompromising warfare against what he called "sins of the flesh". It was said of him that once, meeting a pair of rustic lovers walking in the fields on a Sunday afternoon, he had lectured them so severely that they had actually untwined themselves (a feat which would not have seemed easy to anyone who had observed the complications of circling arm, clutched waist, knotted fingers, and clutched shoulder), and hurried home, guiltily isolated. He had preached violently at an unfortunate farmer's wife who had come to one of his services with a dress cut a trifle lower at the neck than was customary, and his manner when he was obliged to conduct marriage service was supposed to be unwilling and curt.

At the Thurstons' he usually spoke very little, unless he was asked, and I gathered that he was invited out of kindness, for neither the Doctor nor Mary Thurston believed that he had enough to eat at the vicarage.

I made one or two attempts to converse with him, but was answered only by absent monosyllables. Suddenly, however, he turned to me.

"Mr. Townsend," he said, "I want to ask you a question."

The tone in which he said this was strange. His voice was hollow, almost fierce. There was no apology in it. It was as though he were going to give me a chance to defend myself against some serious imputation. Then he seemed to grow distant again. He stared into the fire.

"You may," he said at last without looking at me, "you may be able to put my mind at rest. I hope you can." I waited. Then abruptly he turned to me again. "Have you noticed anything in this household? Anything going on which should not go on? Anything improper?"

I thought of David Strickland, secretly coming out of Mary Thurston's room. But I smiled, and said cheerfully, "Good Lord, no, Mr. Rider. I've always considered it a model household."

He was so quaint and eccentric that I forgot to blame him for the indiscretion of his query. You could blame him no more than you would blame a child for discussing his hosts' concerns. But I was greatly relieved when just then the door opened, and Sam Williams, the lawyer, came in, so that the talk became more natural.

Dinner I remember as a cheerful, almost a hilarious meal. We all ate with real enjoyment and Thurston was excited about some hock he had bought at an auction sale of a neighboring estate. Stall handled it with reverent efficiency and it was certainly excellent.

It was irritating, though, when Mary Thurston had left us, to have the Vicar sitting morosely at the table, primly refusing the port, and making it impossible to talk more freely than we had done in the presence of our hostess. Not that the conversation after dinner at the Thurstons' was ever particularly crude—it was not. But young Strickland could tell stories nimbly, in spite of his rather weighty character, and perhaps it was just because Mr. Rider was there that I for one was puffed by the silence forced on him. I was relieved when someone suggested bridge, though neither Thurston nor I was particularly fond of cards.

Several of us were tired that evening. I was not at all surprised when quite early young Strickland got up and apologetically proposed to go to bed. He had got up very early that day, he said, and felt fagged out.

"Whiskey and soda before you go?" suggested Thurston from the card table.

But Strickland unexpectedly refused. "No, thanks awfully," he said, "I really think I'll turn in right away." And he nodded to us, and left the room.

PLASTIC CARS
MAYBE we shall yet have automobile fenders that won't crumple every time you scrape the side of the garage door or touch another car. They will be made not of steel, but of straw, chaff, cornstalks and other farm waste.
This is the pleasant prospect held out by Henry Ford, though he isn't quite so explicit about the fenders. He has had industrial chemists working for years on "plastics," the wonderful new, light, tough, non-corroding substances made from soy beans and many other things. The other day he showed newspapermen a thin, convex sheet of such a product derived from soy beans and wheat chaff. He put it on the floor and jumped on it, and it didn't crack or break. Steel wouldn't have stood that, he said.
The Fords and Du Ponts particularly have been making remarkable progress in such chemical research—"chemurgy" Ford calls it, a word imitated from "metallurgy." Ford believes we shall soon have cars composed mostly of farm products and wastes instead of steel, in all but the motors, wheels, springs and other parts subject to great stress or wear. They would be much lighter than present cars. Also more durable, because they will not rust. They will save valuable metals and greatly prolong the world's iron supply.
More important still, perhaps, they may bring new prosperity to agriculture, by growing these new "metals" on the farms and giving value to vast quantities of farm stuff now wasted.

BOATS AND BOATING
THE United States has two oceans, five Great Lakes and a generous assortment of lesser lakes and rivers for the enjoyment of water sports. And yet it is a little surprising to know how much use is made of them.
A reporter at the recent National Motor Boat Show in New York City was impressed with the statistics he gathered there. For example, the American Power Boat Association reports 200,000 registered power-driven boats alone. There are also a vast number and variety of unregistered outboard and motorless boats—row boats, canoes, small sail boats. There are more yachts than landlubbers realize, both the very costly ones and many more moderately priced.
It is estimated that half a million Americans will cruise around the country's waters during 1938 in various types of craft. We doubt whether this takes into consideration the small boys on home-made rafts. They probably have as much fun, too, as the millionaire in his palatial yacht.

And now the Nazi leaders are soothing their consciences, if any, by calling us militaristic. Oh, well!

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart
When the World war broke out in 1914 I am convinced that not one American in 1,000 believed that the United States would be involved in it.
Sentiment was that it was a crazy struggle, which we had nothing to do with and had no more inclination to break into than any sane person would have to jimmy an entrance into a lunatic asylum, as a volunteer patient. President Woodrow Wilson's neutrality proclamation had almost unanimous popular indorsement. A very few folk said we were making a mistake to be so pacific at the outset — that we would stand a better chance of keeping out of the embroglio by asserting ourselves sternly immediately. But they were mere voices crying in the wilderness. And then, after all we got into the thing.
This time, with about as nasty a situation shimmering, our overwhelming inclination seems to be to try to remain neutral by assuming a threatening attitude. Our few pacifists are accused of being dangerous, by being so pacific.
BELIEVES IN NEUTRALITY
Although undoubtedly in a microscopic minority, I still am not entirely cured of the idea that the best way to be pacifistic is to be outspokenly pacifistic.
I always liked Senator Gerald P. Nye's neutrality law. I am acquainted with the argument that belligerents will be emboldened to stamp on us if assured that we will stay neutral anyway, but I do not subscribe to its conclusion. I do not believe that foreign belligerents will interpret it as literally as that.
And I have considerable sympathy with Representative Louis Ludlow's proposed constitutional amendment, calling for a popular vote to authorize an American declaration of war.
I am sure the Ludlow amendment will be unadopted, but not that it is 100 per cent deficient in merit.

At the Thurstons' he usually spoke very little, unless he was roused, and I gathered that he was invited out of kindness, for neither the Doctor nor Mary Thurston believed that he had enough to eat at the vicarage.
I made one or two attempts to converse with him, but was answered only by absent monosyllables. Suddenly, however, he turned to me.
"Mr. Townsend," he said, "I want to ask you a question."
The tone in which he said this was strange. His voice was hollow, almost fierce. There was no apology in it. It was as though he were going to give me a chance to defend myself against some serious imputation. Then he seemed to grow distant again. He stared into the fire.
"You may," he said at last without looking at me, "you may be able to put my mind at rest. I hope you can." I waited. Then abruptly he turned to me again. "Have you noticed anything in this household? Anything going on

Joe swallowed a couple of times and then turned red. "I'm not trying to change the subject, my dear," he said lamely, "but do you think the rebels or the loyalists will finally win out in Spain?"

Jane Ellen Lamb And Glyn E. Hoover Marry

Rev. Wilson Reads Nuptial Vows At Ceremony

In the presence of the members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends, Miss Jane Ellen Lamb became the bride of Mr. Glyn Edwin Hoover, Saturday, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Lamb, near Orient. The occasion also marked the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lamb.

The ceremony was performed before the large open fireplace in the living room of the Lamb home at 4:30 o'clock with the Rev. E. J. Wilson, of the Presbyterian church of Commercial Point, reading the nuptial service.

Masses of white chrysanthemums in a large bowl centered the mantle shelf, and burning white tapers in crystal candelabra at either end shed a soft light over the wedding party. Mrs. Whitney Lamb, of Commercial Point, the bride's aunt, played the wedding march. Miss Lamb was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding, the bride had chosen an afternoon dress of navy blue alpaca trimmed in white, and wore pinned to her shoulder a corsage of gardenias. Miss Faye Louise Lamb, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a corsage of tallman roses with her frock of jade green crepe. Mr. Nolo Gulick, of Detroit, served as best man.

Immediately following the service, an informal reception was held. A buffet supper was served, the table being attractive in white appointments. A low bowl of paper white narcissus, was used in the center with tall white candles in crystal holders flanking it. A large white decorated wedding cake was on the table, and it was cut and served by the bride. During the evening the new Mr. and Mrs. Hoover left for a brief wedding trip.

Mrs. Hoover, a graduate of Commercial Point high school, attended Office Training school, Columbus, and holds a state position in Columbus.

Mr. Hoover, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hoover, of Ashville, was graduated from the Ashville high school and now holds a position as deputy in the county clerk's office, Circleville. For the present, the couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents in Ashville.

White Crepe Is Grecian In Style

THE GRECIAN motif persists in the more formal type of dress.

Here you see it worked out in a new way and worn by Myrna Loy.

Her dress is a heavy white crepe which employs this theme. It is simply styled, as becomes a classic garment, with a twisted shoulder treatment, and a long, full flowing skirt.

Attention is directed to the waistline, where a girdle of self-material is interestingly outlined with black velvet ribbon.

I don't believe this depression would be half as bad if people would quit talkin' about it. Some of these political speeches make anybody uneasy.

The other night my uncle went to hear one of them fellas lecture and he painted such a bad picture of our economic condition that my uncle got panicky. FACTS AND FANCIES
Beds Go Gay in Color
Color crops up in bed linens, blankets and spreads more richly this year than ever before, according to House Beautiful. Not gaudily, but in deep patriotic tones which touch with graciousness any bedroom they enter. In blankets, the tendency is toward dark single tones, and those in lighter shades often have contrasting borders and initials in the dark tones. In addition there are the new plaids which seem particularly fitting for masculine rooms.

All-wool, soft, fluffy textures are what you should look for. In these there is warmth without the

Ed's Master Loaf

Grind the last of the roast for a loaf. Combine with a few bread crumbs, moisten with cream of mushroom soup, and bake until heated through about 30 minutes. Slice meat and reheat in a casserole.

Left-over Roast or Pot-Roast
Dice the left-over roast, combine it with a cream sauce, and serve in patty shells or on baking powder biscuits. Left-over vegetables such as peas and carrots, if there is not enough to serve separately, are often added to the creamed meat.

Slice roast into thin slices and reheat it in a barbecue sauce. Since the meat is already cooked, it needs only reheating. Longer cooking is undesirable.

Dice the last bits of the roast, combine with an equal amount of chopped cooked potatoes. Season with salt and pepper and grated onion. Moisten with left-over gravy, and brown in hot bacon drippings.

In sheets and pillow slips, also, color is becoming a stronger note. There are floral motifs in colors, too—pastels this time—and initials boldly stand forth in strong shades.

In bath towels, color is equally important. Stripes appear prominently, narrow and wide. The solid color lines have been extended to take in new hues. The newest is burgundy. Finally, look for strong colors or, if your taste still runs toward the lighter ones, see that they are enlivened with bold touches of color.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Beds Go Gay in Color
Color crops up in bed linens, blankets and spreads more richly this year than ever before, according to House Beautiful. Not gaudily, but in deep patrician tones which touch with graciousness any bedroom they enter. In blankets, the tendency is toward dark single tones, and those in lighter shades often have contrasting borders and initials in the dark tones. In addition there are the new plaids which seem particularly fitting for masculine rooms.

All-wool, soft, fluffy textures are what you should look for. In these there is warmth without the weight which leaves you crushed when morning comes.

In sheets and pillow slips, also, color is becoming a stronger note. There are floral motifs in colors, too—pastels this time—and initials boldly stand forth in strong shades.

In bath towels, color is equally important. Stripes appear prominently, narrow and wide. The solid color lines have been extended to take in new hues. The newest is burgundy. Finally, look for strong colors or, if your taste still runs toward the lighter ones, see that they are enlivened with bold touches of color.

Left-over Roast or Pot-Roast
Dice the left-over roast, combine it with a cream sauce, and serve in patty shells or on baking powder biscuits. Left-over vegetables such as peas and carrots, if there is not enough to serve separately, are often added to the creamed meat.

Slice roast into thin slices and reheat it in a barbecue sauce. Since the meat is already cooked, it needs only reheating. Longer cooking is undesirable.

Dice the last bits of the roast, combine with an equal amount of chopped cooked potatoes. Season with salt and pepper and grated onion. Moisten with left-over gravy, and brown in hot bacon drippings.

Grind the last of the roast for a loaf. Combine with a few bread crumbs, moisten with cream of mushroom soup, and bake until heated through about 30 minutes. Slice meat and reheat in a casserole on top of escalloped potatoes or noodles.

Chicken fat may be substituted for butter in cakes and cookies or for creaming or browning foods. Beef drippings may be used for seasoning sauces, meat or fowl stuffings, or in meat loaves.

Add sliced ripe olives to your French dressing for use with salad of crisp celery and red-checked McIntosh apples.

Nutmeg seasons brown sugar sauce to perfection—try it on apple dumplings made, maybe of Northern Spies.

MARSHALL GOES ON WITH TIGHT ZONE DEFENSE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17 — (UP)

—When the center jump was eliminated from the basketball code prior to the start of the current season and the game speeded up, the cage legislators believed they had "cracked down" on coaches who were paralyzing offensive maneuvers by employing the zone defense.

The rule change did not find a heartier reception anywhere than that accorded it by five Buckeye conference coaches who opined that reduced effectiveness of the "zone" would remove Marshall college from the list of championship contenders. Today however, the mentors had ample reason to wonder if their rejoicing wasn't a bit premature.

The only disciple of the "zone" in the Buckeye, gangling Cam Henderson declined to be convinced that this style of defensive play no longer was practical. "We will wait and see," he said in early December, "unless they prove to me the zone no longer will work, I have no intention of abandoning it."

The powerful Huntington team took undisputed possession of the league lead over the week-end when it trounced previously unbeaten Cincinnati 63 to 32. The win was Marshall's third within Buckeye ranks.

In grabbing the league lead the Herd has rolled up an average of 51 points per contest, while its well-knit zone defense has limited opponents to an average of 32 per game.

In the only other Buckeye game of the week-end Miami went into a tie for second place by scoring a convincing 38 to 25 victory over Ohio Wesleyan. George Rung, Miami's fine sophomore guard, paced the Redskins' attack with 12 points.

The other two Buckeye teams played outside league ranks. Ohio U. was unable to halt the scoring activities of the sterling "Chuck" Chukovits, but still managed to grab a 54 to 48 victory over the University of Toledo. Chukovits garnered 21 points to bring his total for nine games this season to 185 markers.

Frank (Doc) Kelker ran wild in the final half against the University of Dayton to lead Western Reserve to a 42 to 33 victory. Held without a point in the first half, Kelker came back to hang up 13 in the last period.

PURDUE TO FACE WILDCATS, NEW BIG TEN THREAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—(UP)—It's up to Purdue tonight to check Northwestern's surprising sweep through the early stages of the 1938 Big Ten basketball campaign.

Leading the league with four straight victories, Northwestern suddenly has become a definite threat to the early favorites—Michigan and Purdue. If Purdue can't stop the Wildcats tonight, they may sail right into the championship through the most favorable schedule in the conference.

Michigan, only other undefeated team in the Big Ten, also risks its perfect record against much-improved Wisconsin. Minnesota's defending co-champions, now virtually out of title consideration with three losses in a row, meets the other champion, Illinois, and Iowa plays at Indiana.

Games Tonight:
Northwestern at Purdue
Michigan at Wisconsin
Minnesota at Illinois
Iowa at Indiana

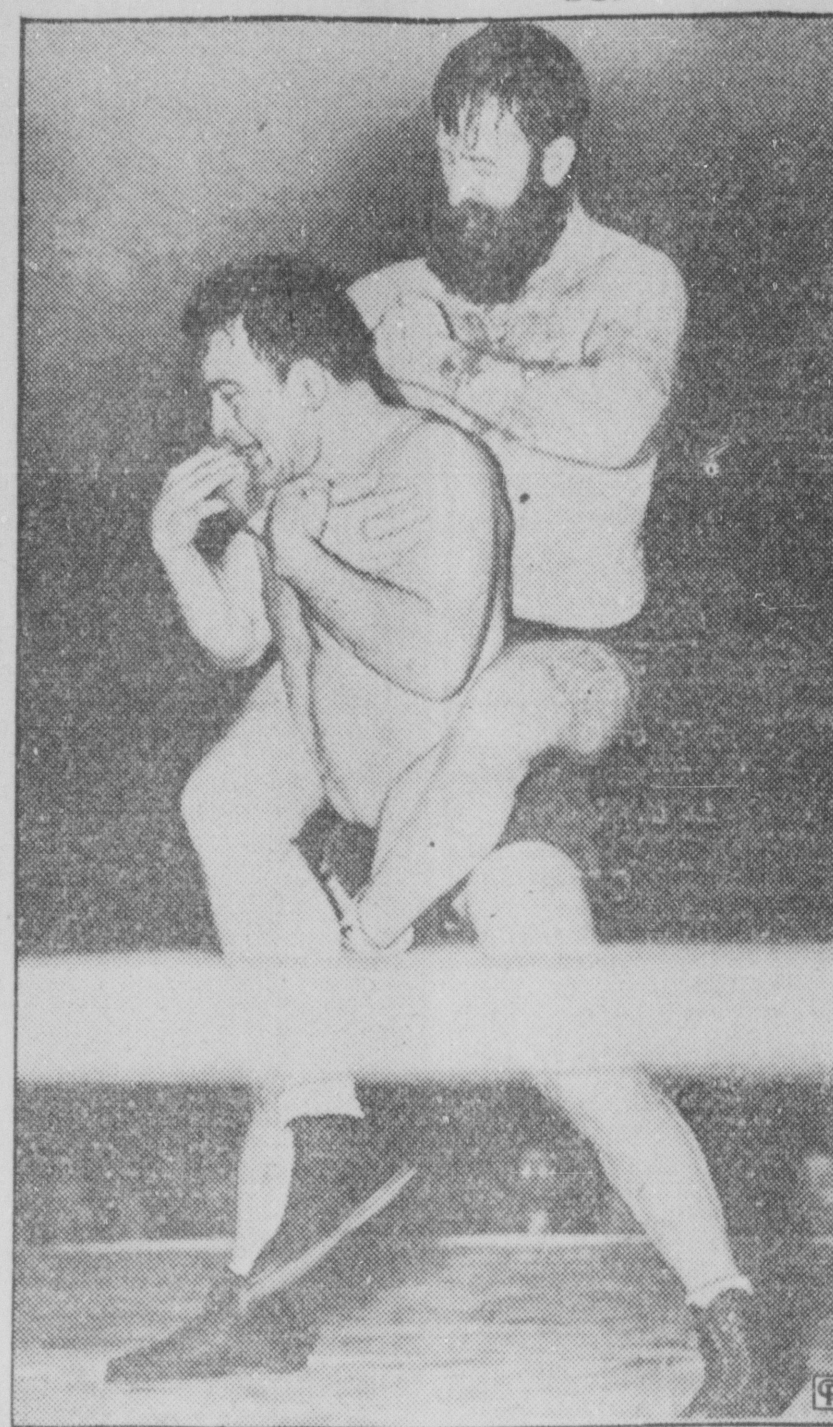

Results Saturday:
Northwestern 32, Indiana 29, overtime.
Michigan 31, Minnesota 16.
Illinois 51, Chicago 34.
Purdue 40, Wisconsin 34.
Ohio State 48, Iowa 29.

MEETING FOR NEW LOOP FORMATION NOT SUCCESS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—(UP)—Athletic directors who had been invited to attend a meeting of a proposed new conference here Sunday today shouted "Signals Over."

The meeting, to which the Universities of Akron, Dayton and Toledo; Butler of Indianapolis and Marshall college, purportedly had pledged themselves failed to materialize.

Walker Cup Team Fine—but Where's Wehrle?

Wisconsin Golfer's Record Tops That of Some Members Western Amateur Champion Snubbed by Selectors

Give the United States Golf association credit for repeating this year its favorite acrobatic feat—opening its mouth and putting its foot in it. The stunt is copyrighted, chums, and Scandinavian rights are reserved.

This time it's Wilford Wehrle. In looking over the amateur field to select the Walker Cup team, the U. S. G. A. again has ignored records and picked, evidently, according to the way the lads part their hair.

Wehrle, western amateur champion of 1937, was left off, even though two of the men he defeated to win that title are members of the team. Wehrle beat Ray Billows and Kocsis in the final to win the crown, and both Billows and Kocsis are on the Walker team. Furthermore, the victory scored by Wehrle in the western was made the more impressive because he beat an unusually strong field.

The performance of the Racine, Wis., golfer in the western was not a fluke, as he has been playing sound golf for several years. Last spring he went to the semi-final in the British amateur championship, proving his ability to cope with wind and weather such as the Walker Cuppers must adjust themselves to in the cup battles this year. In Wehrle's home town, which also is Billows' home town, Ray always has been rated second fiddle to Wilford.

Adds to His String
Returning from England, Wehrle won the Wisconsin state title, shooting the Maple Bluff course in 23 strokes under par. In the qualifying trials for the national amateur, he led his district with a

Donkeys to Perform At C. A. C. Gym this Evening

It's donkey night at the Circleville Athletic Club gymnasium. High school faculty members and businessmen will get a lot of action, and a large crowd of fans will enjoy many hearty laughs during the evening.

Donkeys, which have proved so popular in other central Ohio towns in recent weeks, will provide most of the fun. The little animals, all of which are frisky and difficult to ride, will be the center of attraction during the program which starts at 8:15 o'clock. Members of the high school faculty and some of Circleville's businessmen will comprise teams that will try to toss a basketball through the net while seated on the donkeys.

No points count unless the shooter is on a donkey's back. And there's the rub: try to stay on the donkey's back.

On the faculty team will be Fred Watts, Sam Johnson, Loren Pace, Robert Terhune, and Coach Jack Landrum. The coach did not announce the businessmen's lineup, that to be a surprise.

The festivities will start at 7:15 with a basketball game between high school pupils.

The donkeys were to perform Monday afternoon for grade school

TUESDAY'S CARD PROVIDES THREE TILTS FOR FANS

Eighth Grade, Reserves and Varsity To Tangle In Evening's Games

GREGG TO BE WATCHED

Opener Starts At 6:15 In C.A.C. Gymnasium

Circleville basketball fans will witness two fast cage teams in action on the Circleville Athletic Club court this week when Ashville and West Jefferson provide opposition on Tuesday and Friday, respectively, for the Tiger quintet.

Ashville, possessing one of its finest teams in recent years, will be the Red and Black foe Tuesday, the game to be the final of three scheduled that evening. Circleville eighth graders will take on the Ashville eighth grade crew, the Tiger reserves will play the villagers, and then comes the varsity game. The opener begins at 6:15 o'clock.

In Junior Gregg, Ashville has one of the finest offensive stars to be developed in the county in many moons. The youth, a star as a freshman, is a sophomore now. He has been high scorer in all games his team has played. Ability to shoot with either hand and from any position has made Gregg a marked man in all his games.

With the tall youth will be Red Malory, Wimpy Walden, Chuck Gray and Reese, all capable of splendid ball. Ashville has lost only one game in the county this year, that to Pickaway, 32-35, last Friday night.

The West Jefferson team that invades the C.A.C. gym Friday is reputed to be the best developed in the Madison county town in several seasons.

The Red and Black boys have been showing improvement in the last two weeks, putting up a splendid 24-28 game against Waverly last Friday on the Pike county floor. New fight has taken possession of the Tigers and good performances are promised in both games. Coach Jack Landrum started Whitey Davis and Harold Smith at forwards, Kenny Smith at center, and Paul Walters and Dick Mader at guards, and it is probable the same crew will be used against Ashville.

Gene Mechling, former Capital U. cage star, will referee Tuesday's game.

SAM SNEAD WINS MAJOR CASH IN CROSBY'S EVENT

DEL MAR, Cal., Jan. 17—(UP)—Bing Crosby's golfing party broke up today and for the second consecutive year young Sam Snead went home carrying the biggest slice of the $3,000 purse.

The young hill-billy from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won a total of $775—$500 for first honors in the open section of the tournament and $275 more for placing second with Doug McKinlon, Los Angeles amateur, in simultaneous pro-amateur competition. He grabbed up the booty with a spectacular round of 67 strokes, a new course record for the sporty Rancho Santa Fe layout.

Just a year ago Snead broke out of his obscurity by winning most of the money Crosby annually puts up as prizes for the touring golf professionals, when he wallowed through the flooded fairways with a smashing last round score.

DIMAGGIO GIVEN BEST PLAYER OF SEASON HONORS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (UP)—"Most valuable" players in the major leagues were ignored today by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association, which selected the Yankees' belting outfielder, Joe DiMaggio, as "the player of the year."

The San Francisco Italian, who has played but two years in the big time, was en route to New York where he will be presented with a plaque at the New York writers' 15th annual banquet, Jan. 30. DiMaggio is the eighth recipient of the award, having been preceded in order by Tony Lazzeri, Hank Greenberg, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell, Herb Pennock, Lou Gehrig and Bill Terry. It is the fourth time a Yankee player has been selected, and the sixth time the award has gone to a member of a New York team.

MARSHALL GOES ON WITH TIGHT ZONE DEFENSE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17 — (UP) — When the center jump was eliminated from the basketball code prior to the start of the cur-rent season and the game speeded up, the cage legislators believed they had "cracked down" on coaches who were paralyzing of-fensive maneuvers by employing the zone defense.

The rule change did not find a heartier reception anywhere than that accorded it by five Buckeye conference coaches who opined that reduced effectiveness of the "zone" would remove Marshall college from the list of champion-ship contenders. Today however, the mentors had ample reason to wonder if their rejoicing wasn't a bit premature.

The only disciple of the "zone" in the Buckeye, gangling Cam Henderson declined to be convinced that this style of defensive play no longer was practical.

"We will wait and see," he said in early December. "unless they prove to me the zone no longer will work, I have no intention of abandoning it."

The powerful Huntington team took undisputed possession of the league lead over the week-end when it trounced previously un-beaten Cincinnati 63 to 32. The win was Marshall's third within Buckeye ranks.

In grabbing the league lead the Herd has rolled up an average of 51 points per contest, while its well-knit zone defense has limited opponents to an average of 32 per game.

In the only other Buckeye game of the week-end Miami went into a tie for second place by scoring a convincing 38 to 25 victory over Ohio Wesleyan. George Rung, Miami's fine sophomore guard, paced the Redskins' attack with 12 points.

The other two Buckeye teams played outside league ranks. Ohio U. was unable to halt the scoring activities of the sterling "Chuck" Chukovits, but still managed to grab a 54 to 48 victory over the University of Toledo. Chukovits garnered 21 points to bring his total for nine games this season to 185 markers.

Frank (Doc) Kelker ran wild in the final half against the Univer-sity of Dayton to lead Western Reserve to a 42 to 33 victory. Held without a point in the first half, Kelker came back to hang up 13 in the last period.

PURDUE TO FACE WILDCATS, NEW BIG TEN THREAT

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—(UP)—It's up to Purdue tonight to check Northwestern's surprising sweep through the early stages of the 1938 Big Ten basketball cam-paign.
Leading the league with four straight victories, Northwestern suddenly has become a definite threat to the early favorites—Michigan and Purdue. If Purdue can't stop the Wildcats tonight, they may sail right into the cham-pionship through the most favor-able schedule in the conference.

Michigan, only other undefeated team in the Big Ten, also risks its perfect record against much-improved Wisconsin. Minnesota's defending co-champions, now vir-tually out of title consideration with three losses in a row, meets the other champion, Illinois, and Iowa plays at Indiana.

Games Tonight:
Northwestern at Purdue
Michigan at Wisconsin
Minnesota at Illinois
Iowa at Indiana
Results Saturday:
Northwestern 32, Indiana 29, overtime.
Michigan 31, Minnesota 16.
Illinois 51, Chicago 34.
Purdue 40, Wisconsin 34.
Ohio State 48, Iowa 29.

MEETING FOR NEW LOOP FORMATION NOT SUCCESS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17—(UP)—Athletic directors who had been invited to attend a meeting of a proposed new conference here Sun-day today shouted "Signals Over."
The meeting, to which the Uni-versities of Akron, Dayton and Toledo; Butler of Indianapolis and Marshall college, purportedly had pledged themselves failed to materialize.

Interested parties reached by long distance after the directors failed to put in an appearance said the new conference was still a possibility but offered vague answers as to why they failed to meet as scheduled.

Walker Cup Team Fine—but Where's Wehrle?
Wisconsin Golfer's Record Tops That of Some Members Western Amateur Champion Snaubed by Selectors

Give the United States Golf as-sociation credit for repeating this year its favorite acrobatic feat—opening its mouth and putting its foot in it. The stunt is copy-righted, chums, and Scandinavian rights are reserved.

This time its Wilford Wehrle. In looking over the amateur field to select the Walker Cup team, the U. S. G. A. again has ignored re-cords and picked, evidently, accord-ing to the way the lads part their hair.

Wehrle, western amateur cham-pion of 1937, was left off, even though two of the men he defeat-ed to win that title are members of the team. Wehrle beat Ray Bil-lows in the semi-final and Charley Kocsis in the final to win the crown, and both Billows and Kocsis are on the Walker team. Furthermore, the victory scored by Wehrle in the western was made the more impressive because he beat an unusually strong field.

The performance of the Racine, Wis., golfer in the western was not a fluke, as he has been playing sound golf for several years. Last spring he went to the semi-final in the British amateur championship, proving his ability to cope with wind and weather such as the Walker Cuppers must adjust them-selves to in the cup battles this year. In Wehrle's home town, which also is Billows' home town, Ray always has been rated second fiddle to Wilford.

Adds to His String
Returning from England, Wehrle won the Wisconsin state title, shooting the Maple Bluff course in 23 strokes under par. In the quali-fying trials for the national amate-ur, he led his district with a score of 142. The records of Rey-nolds Smith, Tommy Tailor, Don Moe and Charley Yates were in-ferior to the marks established by the Wisconsin wonder. Tailor and Moe are alternates.

Tailor has a good match play record, but it hardly compares with Wehrle's. He was beaten in the first round of the national amateur at Portland last Summer by Roger Kelly of Los Angeles. The year before he went to the fifth round at Garden City.

Not much fault can be found with the nine regulars on the team that is captained by Francis Ouimet, to meet the British at St. Andrews, June 3 and 4. Besides Billows, Kocsis, Yates, Moe and Smith, they are Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer, Bud Ward and Fred Haas, Jr. Goodman is national amateur champion. Haas inter-collegiate champ, and Fischer a former national champion. Goodman and Fischer are the big guns of the team. Captain Ouimet has been on every squad since the matches were inaugurated 16 years ago.

Will Ouimet Play?
Ouimet may not play. He is a naturally reticent man, but I think the golf bugs of the United States would be glad to see the old wheel-horse go into action again. A golfer who could win the national amateur championship in 1914 and come back to win it again 17 years later (1931) still has a few good putts in his system.

The United States team probably will not need its full strength to win, anyway. Even though Ouimet's game may have slipped backward a little in the last few years, he can afford to take the chance. The series is in the bag.

Donkeys to Perform At C. A. C. Gym this Evening

It's donkey night at the Circleville Athletic Club gymnasium. High school faculty members and businessmen will get a lot of action, and a large crowd of fans will enjoy many hearty laughs during the evening.

Donkeys, which have proved so popular in other central Ohio towns in recent weeks, will provide most of the fun. The little animals, all of which are frisky and dif-ficult to ride, will be the center of attraction during the program which starts at 8:15 o'clock. Mem-bers of the high school faculty and some of Circleville's businessmen will comprise teams that will try to toss a basketball through the net while seated on the donkeys.

No points count unless the shooter is on a donkey's back. And there's the rub: try to stay on the donkey's back.
On the faculty team will be Fred Watts, Sam Johnson, Loren Pace, Robert Terhune, and Coach Jack Landrum. The coach did not announce the businessmen's line-up, that to be a surprise.

The festivities will start at 7:15 with a basketball game between high school pupils.
The donkeys were to perform Monday afternoon for grade school

GREGG TO BE WATCHED

Opener Starts At 6:15 In C.A.C. Gymnasium

Circleville basketball fans will witness two fast cage teams in ac-tion on the Circleville Athletic Club court this week when Ash-ville and West Jefferson provide opposition on Tuesday and Friday, respectively, for the Tiger quintet.
Ashville, possessing one of its finest teams in recent years, will be the Red and Black foe Tues-day, the game to be the final of three scheduled that evening. Circleville eighth graders will take on the Ashville eighth grade crew, the Tiger reserves will play the vil-lages, and then comes the varsity game. The opener begins at 6:15 o'clock.

In Junior Gregg, Ashville has one of the finest offensive stars to be developed in the county in many moons. The youth, a star as a freshman, is a sophomore now. He has been high scorer in all games his team has played. Ability to shoot with either hand and from any position has made Gregg a marked man in all his games.

With the tall youth will be Red Mallory, Wimpy Walden, Chuck Gray and Reese, all capable of splendid ball. Ashville has lost only one game in the county this year, that to Pickaway, 32-35, last Friday night.

The West Jefferson team that invades the C.A.C. gym Friday is reputed to be the best developed in the Madison county town in several seasons.

The Red and Black boys have been showing improvement in the last two weeks, putting up a splen-did 24-28 game against Waverly last Friday on the Pike county floor. New fight has taken pos-session of the Tigers and good per-formances are promised in both games. Coach Jack Landrum started Whitey Davis and Harold Smith at forwards, Kenny Smith at center, and Paul Walters and Dick Mader at guards, and it is probable the same crew will be used against Ashville.

Gene Mechling, former Capital U. cage star, will referee Tues-day's game.

SAM SNEAD WINS MAJOR CASH IN CROSBY'S EVENT

DEL MAR, Cal., Jan. 17—(UP) —Bing Crosby's golfing party broke up today and for the second consecutive year young Sam Snead went home carrying the biggest slice of the $3,000 purse.

The young hill-billy from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won a total of $775—$500 for first hon-ors in the open section of the tournament and $275 more for placing second with Doug McKinnon, Los Angeles amateur, in sin-gultaneous pro-amateur competi-tion. He grabbed up the booty with a spectacular round of 67 strokes, a new course record for the sporty Rancho Santa Fe layout.

Just a year ago Snead broke out of his obscurity by winning most of the money Crosby annual-ly puts up as prizes for the tour-ing golf professionals, when he wallowed through the flooded fairways with a smashing last round score.

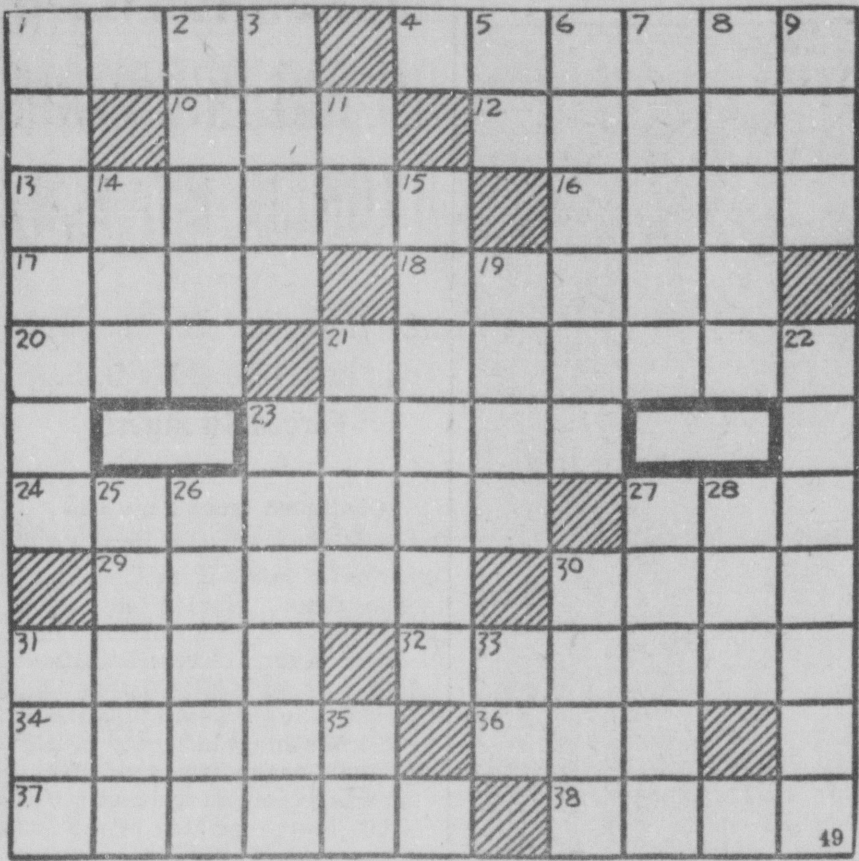

DIMAGGIO GIVEN BEST PLAYER OF SEASON HONORS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (UP) — "Most valuable" players in the major leagues were ignored today by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association, which selected the Yankees' belting outfielder, Joe DiMaggio, as "the player of the year."

The San Francisco Italian, who has played but two years in the big time, was en route to New York where he will be presented with a plaque at the New York writers' 15th annual banquet, Jan. 30. DiMaggio is the eighth recipi-ent of the award, having been pre-ceded in order by Tony Lazzeri, Hank Greenberg, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell, Herb Pennock, Lou Gehrig and Bill Terry. It is the fourth time a Yankee player has been selected, and the sixth time the award has gone to a member of a New York team.

air Jan. 22, the Purdue game on Feb. 12, and the Chicago contest on March 5. All three games start at 8 p. m. in the state fair-grounds coliseum.

A very different situation would have existed had the declarer won the second club and refused the chance for a diamond finesse. The danger of the heart A being knocked out was of paramount importance to the success of the declarer's contract, so he should have cashed the diamond A and then led the Q, with the hope that the K would be forced to win. It would not have mattered then if the switch was made to hearts, as the diamonds were then cleared and nine tricks could have been cashed before the opponents again gained control.

Perry Township Organization Opens Its Program At Atlanta School

Amateurs and Home Talent Plays Scheduled

Officers of both the Saltcreek and Commercial Point institutes were re-elected Saturday.

The Saltcreek township institute officers are Earl Ketteman, president; E. C. Shupe, vice president; Raymond Hedges, secretary; Dwight Rector, treasurer, and Mrs. Mary Fraunfelter, hostess. Those re-elected at Commercial Point are Everett Beavers, president; Merritt Dountz, vice president; Robert Walker, treasurer; Paul McKnight, secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Hill, lady correspondent.

Both institutes closed Saturday evening with home talent plays. Good attendance was reported at all sessions. A play entitled "The Gay Pretenders," was given at the Commercial Point institute by the Scioto Grange. Members of the Saltcreek township Parent-Teachers association presented a play entitled "Look Out Lizzie."

Five on Schedule

said to have been rushed to the North from various sections of China, the reports added.

Meanwhile, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Northern army commanders were mapping military operations along the so-called Lunghai railroad which cuts through the center of Shantung province for a clash with the Japanese moving to the south.

Bitter Fight Reported

Latest reports, circulated by Chinese sources, said that Tsinan had been recaptured by the Japanese for the third time. Bitter fighting was in progress southwest of the city, according to the reports, and the Chinese were putting up desperate resistance.

The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported from Tsinan that one Japanese column moving eastward through Shantung province toward Tsingtao had occupied Kiaochow. The column was proceeding along a railway in line with another force moving south from Tsingtao, it was said, and a junction would be effected soon.

Reports circulating in Shanghai said Japanese troops were burning a number of small Chinese villages in the vicinity of Pootung in an attempt to oust hundreds of Chinese plainclothes men there. They also were said to be restricting the movement of Chinese civilians in an attempt to prevent the escape of guerrillas.

the case is being decided. Mrs. Hahn's counsel announced it was prepared to carry the case to the U. S. supreme court.

REED IN COURT AS SUTHERLAND SITS LAST TIME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—The supreme court convened at noon today for the last session at which retiring Justice George Sutherland will sit on the bench. Reed, U. S. solicitor general, nominated by President Roosevelt to fill Sutherland's place.

Absent from the court on the final day of Sutherland's tenure was Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, seriously ill at his home with recurring heart attacks.

Reed's appearance at the $12,000,000 marble court building set up a flutter of excitement. Photographers and autograph hunters besieged him as he walked in the entrance.

Sutherland marked his last day on the bench by delivering the court's opinion in a complicated tax case involving the Minnesota Tea Co.

Sutherland's opinion gave a victory to the government in a fight to force the tea company to pay income taxes on $106,471 distributed to the company's stockholders when the firm was sold to the Grand Union Co. in 1928.

Under the 1928 transfer of tea company assets to the Grand Union Co., the former company received stock of the latter as well as $426,842 in cash. The money immediately was distributed to Minnesota tea stockholders.

Modern 'Carrie Nations' Smashing Slot Machines Put Crimp In Gambling

Mrs. Dan Kite, modern Carrie Nation, of Alton, Ill., visited 10 saloons in the short space of an hour and wrecked 13 slot machines with an axe.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—As a result of a routine legal opinion by Attorney General Otto Kerner of Illinois, a new and effective weapon to smash slot machine gambling in two widely separated parts of the state has been utilized by crusading women who have inadvertently launched their own "Carrie Nation" movement.

Instead of aiming their axes and hammers at bottles of liquor, however, the present-day reformers are concentrating on the sporadic appearances of the "one-armed bandits," which they assert are draining the funds of the poor and giving nothing in return.

Helped City Deficit

In Peoria, ironically enough, the city administration had come to an agreement with the syndicate whereby the city deficit amounting to about $90,000 annually was partially defrayed by "contributions" from slot machine operators. Previously, periodic raids and fines accomplished the same purpose.

But hundreds of Peoria machines disappeared overnight when the self-designated "vigilantes" threatened to emulate Mrs. Kite. And the administration, while bemoaning the loss of $90,000 from the city treasury, vows the machines are now "out to stay."

In Bloomington, similar crusading groups are organizing.

Truly, unassuming Mrs. Kite "started something." Where it will end, no one can predict.

CITIES WARNED HOUSE TRAILER IS '38 PROBLEM

Municipal Association Says Immediate Control Is Only Solution

FIVE FACTORS CITED

Staying Period For All Callers Regulated

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17—(UP)—The house trailer with its nomadic following has been listed by the American Municipal Association as one of the six "acute problems" confronting American cities in 1938.

Clifford W. Ham, executive secretary of the association, said the trailer problem, even though in its infancy, will demand direct, immediate and mutual attention of cities or it will get out of control.

The five other problems listed were:

1. Financing relief and adjusting to the removal of PWA as a factor in public works programs.
2. Low-cost housing.
3. Support of airports.
4. Retirement systems for municipal employees.
5. Training for public employees.

Ordinances Need Expansion

The association report said that local ordinances pertaining to house trailers should be expanded to receive the attention of municipal and state officials in the fields of health, relief, police, fire, taxation and recreation.

In 1937 more than 50 cities decided the problem, though not yet of major proportions, could not be solved simply by prohibiting trailer parking and occupancy of camps within city limits. Laws were passed to limit the staying period and others to regulate sanitation.

With building of more trailers than housing units last year, 1938 may see the problem get out of control, Ham said.

Problems relative to relief and employment were aggravated in some instances by exhaustion of PWA funds. The association said that constructive relief programs still depend on a resurvey of public revenues and an allocation of income made among levels of government on the basis of needs and responsibilities.

Housing Funds Required

Another problem concern low-cost housing. Under the 1937 Wagner-Steagall housing act cities in 30 states that have housing authority enabling laws are empowered to go ahead with slum clearance and low-rent housing projects. Cities in the other 18 states must await legislation. The association said that those already legally prepared to proceed must find a way to finance projects with the aid of Federal loans and grants.

Increased air traffic calls for improvements on airport facilities, now representing an investment of $300,000,000 the association pointed out. Operating expenses have also risen. To keep pace with changing conditions in air travel, cities are confronted with financing such improvements in order to benefit with their neighbors.

Adoption of the Social Security Act called attention to the inadequacy of retirement systems for municipal employees totaling about 700,000. City employees urged by the association to enter pension programs now, possible in several states.

Training for public employees, the association said, is now available to cities. With inclusion of such training under vocational education appropriations made in 1937 cities now have an opportunity to arrange for training of their employees. Federal funds for the purpose are to be matched with state contributions but co-operation of cities is necessary to plan activities.

MAYORS BURTON, LaGUARDIA ASK FEDERAL WORKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York and Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland today appealed to the federal government to assume responsibility for employment of thousands made idle by the business recession.

La Guardia asked a new public works program to aid heavy industries.

Both La Guardia—although he declared he had no definite program to recommend—and Burton asked that the Works Progress administration expand its program to care for thousands able to work and idle due to new industrial shutdowns.

The municipal executives told the senate unemployment and relief committee that unemployment had increased rapidly since the sudden business downturn in Autumn.

They declared that a large percentage of the new applications came from persons who were willing to work if work could be found.

international situation or a worldwide naval building race.

The report pointed out that since 1933, appropriations have been made for 119 vessels estimated to cost $1,443,643,280 to build the fleet to strengths permitted by the Washington treaty of 1922 and the London treaty of 1930.

It was explained that with $10,000,000 reappropriated in the 1938 budget, and $4,071,000 reappropriated in today's bill, the 1939 total may be considered to be $32,652,186 greater than the appropriation for the current fiscal year and $15,210,967 less than budget requests.

The recommended appropriation represents a heavy increase since 1932, when only $359,642,104 was appropriated.

Important increases in the bill from current appropriations include: naval and marine corps personnel, including reserve activities, $10,239,759; fleet operation, $2,472,690; fleet repairs, $2,983,173; maintenance and operation of shore stations, $6,242,074; fleet improvements, $4,281,800 replacement of naval vessels, $13,700,000; replenishment of naval supply account fund, $7,000,000.

FLOOD BLAMED FOR COMPANY'S $2.35 "DEFICIT"

PUEBLO, Colo. (UP)—The mystery of a $2.35 shortage in the accounts of a creamery here which appeared in May, 1915, has been cleared up, but the shortage will continue to exist.

When the lock on the strong box in the safe at the creamery needed repairs, it was necessary to remove the box from the safe. A faded check for $2.35 dated May 15, 1915, was found stuck to the top of the little iron box.

The check apparently had slipped through a small slit at the top of the box where it lay from 1915 to June of 1921 when the flood came and the safe was under water. The water covered the check and left it stuck fast to the metal when it dried. The check is faded, but plainly visible.

To cash the check, it would be necessary to take the strong box to the bank.

said to have been rushed to the North from various sections of China, the reports added.

Meanwhile, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Northern army commanders were mapping military operations along the so-called Lunghai railroad which cuts through the center of Shantung province for a clash with the Japanese moving to the south.

Bitter Fight Reported

Latest reports, circulated by Chinese sources, said that Tsinghai had been recaptured by the Japanese for the third time. Bitter fighting was in progress southwest of the city, according to the reports, and the Chinese were putting up desperate resistance.

The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported from Tsinan that one Japanese column moving eastward through Shantung province toward Tsingtao had occupied Kiaochow. The column was proceeding along a railway in line with another force moving south from Tsingtao, it was said, and a junction would be effected soon.

Reports circulating in Shanghai said Japanese troops were burning a number of small Chinese villages in the vicinity of Pootung in an attempt to oust hundreds of Chinese plainclothes men there. They also were said to be restricting the movement of Chinese civilians in an attempt to prevent the escape of guerrillas.

the case is being decided. Mrs. Hahn's counsel announced it was prepared to carry the case to the U. S. supreme court.

Bolsinger argued that the state improperly introduced evidence in connection with the deaths of Albert Palmer, George Obendorfer and George Gsellman and the illness of George Heis. The state contended that Mrs. Hahn poisoned these men and Wagner in an effort to get their money.

REED IN COURT AS SUTHERLAND SITS LAST TIME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—

The supreme court convened at noon today for the last session at which retiring Justice George Sutherland will sit on the bench. Before the court sat Stanley F. Reed, U. S. solicitor general, nominated by President Roosevelt to fill Sutherland's place.

Absent from the court on the final day of Sutherland's tenure was Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, seriously ill at his home with recurring heart attacks.

Reed's appearance at the $12,000,000 marble court building set off a flutter of excitement. Photographers and autograph hunters besieged him as he walked in the entrance.

Sutherland marked his last day on the bench by delivering the court's opinion in a complicated tax case involving the Minnesota Tea Co.

Sutherland's opinion gave a victory to the government in a fight to force the tea company to pay income taxes on $106,471 distributed to the company's stockholders when the firm was sold to the Grand Union Co. in 1928.

Under the 1928 transfer of tea company assets to the Grand Union Co., the former company received stock of the latter as well as $426,842 in cash. The money immediately was distributed to Minnesota tea stockholders.

Modern 'Carrie Nations' Smashing Slot Machines Put Crimp In Gambling

Mrs. Dan Kite, modern Carrie Nation, of Alton, Ill., visited 10 saloons in the short space of an hour and wrecked 13 slot machines with an axe.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—As a result of a routine legal opinion by Attorney General Otto Kerner of Illinois, a new and effective weapon to smash slot machine gambling in two widely separated parts of the state has been utilized by crusading women who have inadvertently launched their own "Carrie Nation" movement.

Instead of aiming their axes and hammers at bottles of liquor, however, the present-day reformers are concentrating on the sporadic appearances of the "one-armed bandits," which they assert are draining the funds of the poor and giving nothing in return.

It all started a few days before Christmas when Mrs. Dan Kite, 32, of Alton, Ill., wife of a saloonkeeper, became incensed over the operations of a so-called "syndicate" controlling slot machines in the town.

Armed with an axe, Mrs. Kite, who is comely and husky, visited 10 saloons, and in the short space of an hour, wrecked 13 slot machines as the tavernkeepers stood by, too amazed to interfere. Her parting shot as she left was:

"I'll chop up these machines as fast as you install them!"

After she had wrecked her last machine, Mrs. Kite was escorted to the police station to await a possible warrant from one of the offended tavern owners. But none arrived, as the modern-day Carrie Nation calmly reminded authorities of the opinion in which Attorney General Kerner had said no one owning or operating a slot machine had any property rights in the eyes of the law.

Hence, it became apparent to Alton police, the owner of a wrecked machine could not publicly admit owning it.

If he did, Kerner had ruled, the operator invited prosecution on a self-confessed charge.

So Mrs. Kite was released, and telegrams and letters of congratulation began pouring in, commending her for her aggressive originality in breaking up the gambling syndicate where police had failed.

Among the observers of Mrs. Kite's one-woman raid were a group of impatient women in North Chicago, near the northern Illinois state line. Their appeals to have authorities rid the community of slot machines had been ignored periodically for many months. They pointed in vain to the alleged waste of relief money to "play" the machines.

Sixty Strong

Then Mrs. Kite came along and gave them an idea. Sixty strong, the ladies marched to the city hall and sought the mayor, John P. Dromey, or any of the aldermen. No official could be found.

Finally, exasperated but determined as a result of the latest Carrie Nation example of how to get things done, the women notified Police Chief Jacob Novak that unless the slot machines were removed by nightfall, a women's vigilante committee would set out with axes and destroy the 80 or so boxes located in various taverns and stores throughout the industrial city of 8,000 persons.

The threat was accompanied by a reminder that the attorney general's ruling gave such destruction of slot machines ample legality.

Evidently North Chicagoans had heard of Mrs. Kite, too, for within a short time every slot machine had disappeared. The women who scored such a telling blow to the "syndicate" assert the machines are out to stay, either voluntarily by their owners, or by the axe route.

Perhaps the greatest furor was caused in Peoria, where, during the past two weeks, groups of outraged citizens threatened to take matters into their own hands, in the "Kite manner," and apply the axe to "slots" in operation there for the past few years.

Helped City Deficit

In Peoria, ironically enough, the city administration had come to an agreement with the syndicate whereby the city deficit amounting to about $90,000 annually was partially defrayed by "contributions" from slot machine operators. Previously, periodic raids and fines accomplished the same purpose.

CITIES WARNED HOUSE TRAILER IS '38 PROBLEM

Municipal Association Says Immediate Control Is Only Solution

FIVE FACTORS CITED

Staying Period For All Callers Regulated

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17—(UP)—The house trailer with its nomadic following has been listed by the American Municipal Association as one of the six "acute problems" confronting American cities in 1938.

Clifford W. Ham, executive secretary of the association, said the trailer problem, even though in its infancy, will demand direct, immediate and mutual attention of cities or it will get out of control.

The five other problems listed were:

1. Financing relief and adjusting to the removal of PWA as a factor in public works programs.
2. Low-cost housing.
3. Support of airports.
4. Retirement systems for municipal employees.
5. Training for public employees.

The association report said that local ordinances pertaining to house trailers should be expanded to receive the attention of municipal and state officials in the fields of health, relief, police, fire, taxation and recreation.

In 1937 more than 50 cities decided the problem, though not yet of major proportions, could not be solved simply by prohibiting trailer parking and occupancy of camps within city limits. Laws were passed to limit the staying period and others to regulate sanitation.

With building of more trailers than housing units last year, 1938 may see the problem get out of control, Ham said.

Problems relative to relief and employment were aggravated in some instances by exhaustion of PWA funds. The association said that constructive relief programs still depend on a resurvey of public revenues and an allocation of income made among levels of government on the basis of needs and responsibilities.

Housing Funds Required

Another problem concern low-cost housing. Under the 1937 Wagner-Steagall housing act cities in 30 states that have housing authority enabling laws are empowered to go ahead with slum clearance and low-rent housing projects. Cities in the other 18 states must await legislation. The association said that those already legally prepared to proceed must find a way to finance projects with the aid of Federal loans and grants.

Increased air traffic calls for improvements on airport facilities, now representing an investment of $300,000,000 the association pointed out. Operating expenses have also risen. To keep pace with changing conditions in air travel, cities are confronted with financing such improvements in order to benefit with their neighbors.

Adoption of the Social Security Act called attention to the inadequacy of retirement systems for municipal employees totaling about 700,000. Cities were urged by the association to enter pension programs now, possible in several states.

Training for public employees, the association said, is now available to cities. With inclusion of such training under vocational education appropriations made in 1937 cities now have an opportunity to arrange for training of their employees. Federal funds for the purpose are to be matched with state contributions but co-operation of cities is necessary to plan activities.

YOUTH FACES HEARING IN THEFT INVESTIGATION

MAYORS BURTON, LaGUARDIA ASK FEDERAL WORKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(UP)—

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, of New York and Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland today appealed to the federal government to assume responsibility for employment of thousands made idle by the business recession.

La Guardia asked a new public works program to aid heavy industries.

Both La Guardia—although he declared he had no definite program to recommend—and Burton asked that the Works Progress administration expand its program to care for thousands able to work and idle due to new industrial shutdowns.

The municipal executives told the senate unemployment and relief committee that unemployment had increased rapidly since the sudden business downturn in autumn.

They declared that a large percentage of the new applications came from persons who were willing to work if work could be found.

international situation or a world-wide naval building race.

The report pointed out that since 1933, appropriations have been made for 119 vessels estimated to cost $1,443,643,280 to build the fleet to strengths permitted by the Washington treaty of 1922 and the London treaty of 1930.

It was explained that with $10,000,000 reappropriated in the 1938 budget, and $4,071,000 reappropriated in today's bill, the 1939 total may be considered to be $32,652,186 greater than the appropriation for the current fiscal year and $15,210,967 less than budget requests.

The recommended appropriation represents a heavy increase since 1932, when only $359,642,104 was appropriated.

Important increases in the bill from current appropriations include: naval and marine corps personnel, including reserve activities, $10,239,759; fleet operation, $2,472,690; fleet repairs, $2,983,173; maintenance and operation of shore stations, $6,242,074; fleet improvements, $4,281,800 replacement of naval vessels, $13,700,000; replenishment of naval supply account fund, $7,000,000.

FLOOD BLAMED FOR COMPANY'S $2.35 "DEFICIT"

PUEBLO, Colo. (UP)—The mystery of a $2.35 shortage in the accounts of a creamery here which appeared in May, 1915, has been cleared up, but the shortage will continue to exist.

When the lock on the strong box in the safe at the creamery needed repairs, it was necessary to remove the box from the safe. A faded check for $2.35 dated May 15, 1915, was found stuck to the top of the little iron box.

The check apparently had slipped through a small slit at the top of the box where it lay from 1915 to June of 1921 when the flood came and the safe was under water. The water covered the check and left it stuck fast to the metal when it dried. The check is faded, but plainly visible.

To cash the check, it would be necessary to take the strong box to the bank.
